Introduction

There is no doubt that the cat family occupies a special place in human affections. Whether it is a domestic tabby purring contentedly on its favourite choice of bed, or a magnificent Tiger padding through the forest undergrowth, there is a unique charisma about these creatures which instills both primitive fear and intense admiration. Naturetrek clients have always enjoyed a wide choice of tours offering the opportunity to observe ‘big cats’ – these include our unrivalled ‘Just Tigers’ holidays which have enabled many hundreds of participants to obtain close-up views of the mighty Tiger patrolling his forest domain in Northern India. On our other tours, Asian and African Lions, Leopards, Snow Leopard, and even the rare Clouded Leopard in Sabah, have all been appreciated by Naturetrek groups, but until recently the beautiful Jaguar has remained just an enigmatic possibility on a few of our South American tours... Notoriously shy and elusive, this supreme predator is adept at concealment but in the Pantanal region of Brazil, where Jaguar numbers are probably higher than anywhere else in the continent, the chances of encountering one greatly increase during the dry period of June through November. This is the season when the Pantanal waters are in recession, concentrating both prey and predator into the disappearing wet areas and it is the time when Jaguars are most easily located. Even at this most favourable time it cannot be guaranteed that we will find our quarry, but maximum efforts will be spent to achieve our objective with extensive, radio-equipped boat trips to add extra frisson to our searches. If the Jaguars fail to oblige (though they always have so far), there is always a wealth of wildlife to enjoy in the Pantanal! Resident mammals include the bizarre Giant Anteater, Brazilian Tapir, Tayra, Marsh Deer, Crab-eating Fox and Giant River Otters, whilst the exotic avifauna features a fine selection of waterbirds and the gorgeous Hyacinth Macaw, one of the world’s rarest parrots, and certainly among the most attractive. It should be stated however that this is not the Serengeti, and many of the mammals are extremely secretive, so many encounters will inevitably be brief. Despite this caveat, this is a tour that offers an excellent chance of seeing the largest of the South American felines and promises to be an amazing wildlife adventure into a legendary paradise for natural history. Early registration is recommended for this tour, as Jaguars have seen increasing popularity in recent years, and all of our tours to date have seen a Jaguar!
Itinerary

Please note that the itinerary below offers our planned programme of excursions. However, adverse weather & other local considerations can necessitate some re-ordering of the programme during the course of the tour, though this will always be done to maximise best use of the time and weather conditions available.

Day 1

In flight

We leave London Heathrow on a scheduled service flight to Sao Paulo in Brazil.

Days 2 – 3

Pouso Alegre Lodge

Following an early morning arrival in Sao Paulo, we board a domestic flight to Cuiabá, the capital of Mato Grosso State. From here we drive approximately 2 hours into the Pantanal, to our first lodge, Pouso Alegre, where we stay for two nights. The drive from Cuiaba will introduce some of the inhabitants of the Pantanal region, with the last 7 km of the drive being the private, wildlife-rich driveway of our lodge, Pouso Alegre. As we drive, we will see a transitional forest grading from dry “Cerrado” to more wet woodland typical of southern Mato Grosso region, and the birdlife is both colourful and plentiful with representatives from some of the Neotropical families, such as toucans, tanagers and hummingbirds, that we will be seeing throughout the tour.

The drive from Cuiabá Airport starts with driving 100 km southwest on asphalt (for 70-75 minutes) to the town of Poconé, which with 25,000 inhabitants is the county seat for 5 million acres of the north Pantanal. These 100 km run through different types of tropical dry forest that go by the name of “cerrado” and “cerradão”. As you leave the south end of Poconé on your way into the Pantanal proper, you see the dry forests and fields drop slightly into the large flat floodplain of the Pantanal proper, and the 122 bridges begin... After 17 km we will encounter the first wooden bridges, often seeing the first assemblage of herons, caimans, and Capybaras. Pouso Alegre's entrance gate is located 12 km further south along the well-known 145-km-long “Transpantaneira” raised dirt and gravel road. The lodge is famous for its excellent mammal viewing and birding, much of which one does along the lodge's private 7-km-long, raised driveway. Slow drives on this long entrance road often yield good views of species such as Red Brocket Deer, Bare-faced Curassows,
Chestnut-bellied Guans, Brazilian Tapir, and even Giant Anteaters! On the first 29 km of the Transpantaneira, and on the last 500 m before reaching the Pouso Alegre Lodge, you will also enjoy your first good views of hundreds of Paraguayan Caimans as well as dozens of Capybaras. Other wildlife species often seen at Pouso Alegre include Azara’s Agouti, Black-tailed Marmoset and Lesser Anteater.

While based at Pouso Alegre, we may drive short distances in the evening on the Transpantaneira to gain access to other marshes and bridges in search of fauna. We use our open-sided, safari lorry for these drives on the long driveway, and we include a one-hour-long night spotlighting drive on each of the two nights at Pouso Alegre.

Day 4

Porto Jofre – Jaguar Flotel

We leave Pouso Alegre Lodge early in the morning in our open-sided safari lorry and drive towards the end of the Transpantaneira Road, which is in the locality called “Porto Jofre”. During the 6 hour long, 120 km drive, which is a wildlife safari in itself, we will be on the lookout for family groups of Black and Gold Howler Monkeys, South American Coatis and Marsh Deer, as well as enormous aggregations of water birds wading in the roadside rivers and pools.

Upon reaching Porto Jofre, which lies on the north bank of the 170-m-wide Cuiabá River, we board our radio-equipped Jaguar search boat and cruise upstream for 15 km, beginning our search for Jaguars and Giant Otters. Both species reach their global maxima and are most habituated in the 100 km of river channels upstream from Porto Jofre and we ensure we kept up to date on the latest sightings from our network of radio-equipped spotter boats.

Our accommodation is a unique, floating hotel or “flotel” near the mouth of the Tres Irmaos River that is operated as a Jaguar research and tourism base by the conservation biologist, Dr Charles Munn. While our biologist host is not always at the flotel, the photo dossier research on Jaguar faces continues apace, as guests become, in effect, guest researchers. With more than 70 different Jaguars having been seen and photographed in the surrounding area since 2005, the research provides a fascinating insight into the lives of these otherwise mysterious subjects and if a guest provides our team with a good face photo of a previously-unphotographed Jaguar, then he or she is granted the honour of naming rights!

The flotel is the only permanent accommodation in the centre of the "Jaguar Zone", which could also be called "the Giant Otter Zone", as these 100-km of river channels are by far the best place in the world to see either of these otherwise shy and elusive top predators. Naturetrek guests therefore have a distinct advantage over more distantly-located lodges or camps, which start 15km’s up river and require a lengthy and often unproductive 45 minute journey each way. With instant access to the most productive area for our target species, should we receive word of a sighting when we’re back at the flotel having lunch, we can literally abandon our food and head straight out!

With the flotel having been extensively refurbished in 2014, it now offers very comfortable accommodation, with spacious, air-conditioned cabins and private facilities.

Days 5 – 7

We will spend three full days at the Flotel, following a routine of morning and afternoon boat safaris exploring the most Jaguar-rich sections of the Cuiabá, Piquiri, and Three Brothers Rivers, returning back to the Flotel in the middle of the day for lunch and some downtime. Whilst on the boat safari, we likely cover a great deal of ground, systematically checking the sandy banks, patches of dense tropical forest on the riverbank, and rush-beds along the water’s edge in search of the biggest predator in the Pantanal. These excursions will always be subject to possible changes following suggestions by local guides and depending on the appearances of other mammals in the area that may also include the arboreal Brazilian Porcupine, Brazilian Tapir and of course, families of Giant River Otters. Six half-day boat trips are scheduled during our stay.
An adaptable and versatile predator, the Jaguar once occurred much more widely in South America but conflict with man has reduced its range by 40%. Always unpredictable and secretive by nature, it is no easy task to find a Jaguar in the wild even where the animal occurs at world-record densities such as this. Even though our programme is designed to provide an excellent chance of achieving our aim, success is not guaranteed. All of our years of running tours we have found Jaguars on every tour, but there is still no absolute guarantee.

Searching for these wary creatures may demand extreme patience and occasional discomfort, with periods spent in small boats during which absolute silence is essential to avoid frightening away the wildlife on the river bank. If we do find a Jaguar, viewing time may be brief, but the effort entailed does ensure a tremendous elation and sense of privilege at finally sharing a few moments in the life of this wonderful animal.

Whilst looking for our quarry, and during our short periods ashore, we will doubtless meet with a varied selection of mammals and birds; Capybara and Caiman, important prey species for Jaguars are frequently encountered along the rivers, whilst birds are likely to include Black Skimmers, both Large-billed and Yellow-billed Terns and a host of different raptors.

Day 8

SouthWild Pantanal Lodge

After breakfast, we boat 15 km downstream from the flotel to our safari truck and retrace our steps, driving along the Transpantaneira back to km 66, where we turn onto a 3-km-long private drive to our final lodge, the intimate SouthWild Pantanal Lodge (also known by its two older names: Pantanal Wildlife Center and Santa Tereza). Here we settle into our air conditioned rooms, lunch and have a short nap before heading out in the late afternoon for a boat outing on the 60-m-wide wildlife-rich Pixaim River or a slow wildlife stroll through the 5km of marked, clean forest trails designed by our biologist host.
Days 9 – 10

SouthWild Pantanal Lodge

After 4 nights on the flotel, SouthWild Pantanal Lodge offers a different range of wildlife and activities and we will spend the next two full days undertaking a mix of safari drives, walks and boat rides. The lodge benefits from two wildlife observation towers: one in the riverine forest and the other next to a nest of thoroughly-habituated Jabiru Storks, allowing fantastic photographic opportunities. The riverine forest also holds several troops of very confiding Brown Capuchins, whilst the unmistakable call of the areas resident troop of Howler Monkeys is likely to become a familiar sound as dawn breaks. The lodge's bird feeders are also regularly visited the world's largest toucan, the emblematic Toco Toucan, as well as a number of very colorful passerines, most notably the Orange-based Troupial.

The marked trails in the gallery forest present a unique opportunity to see some of the more elusive forest birds and mammals, but you must walk slowly and silently to have the best results. Gallery or riverine forest is the most species-rich habitat type but represents only 2% of the entire Pantanal, and our lodge has good access to a network of trails that have not been grazed or invaded by cattle, ensuring that the understory is intact and proving refuge to a diverse range of species.

The Pixaim River is right next to the lodge, and boat safaris on this short stretch of river are likely to yield excellent views of Black-crowned Night Herons, Boat-billed Herons and with luck, the jewel of the Pantanal, the stunning Agami Herons, as well as a fabulous variety of Kingfishers, Egrets and Ibises.

Unusual amongst land based lodges in the North Pantanal, over the years; SouthWild Pantanal Lodge has enjoyed some fantastic sightings of Jaguars in the lodge grounds and along the Pixaim River. With only a small number of boats operating on this stretch of the river, if we are lucky enough to see a Jaguar in this area, it is likely to be a very exclusive sighting, but it should be noted such a sighting would be a fantastic bonus and should not be expected.
The area of the Pixaim River at our lodge also boasts two pairs of very habituated and photogenic Jabiru Storks, which will sometimes fly next to your boat – great for close-up photos of this huge bird in flight. Also very tame and photogenic are a series of Ringed and Amazon Kingfishers and several hawks, notably Black-collared and Great Black Hawk – they are happy to take fresh fish off the surface of the water, making for spectacular photo opportunities.

Finally, the 1-hour spotlighting drive in our open sided safari truck, have the potential to reveal yet more wonders of the Pantanal, with the lodge grounds and roadside habitat along the Transpantaneira, providing excellent habitat for Ocelot, Brazilian Tapir and both Anteater species. With aid of the spotlight, we are also likely to pick up the incredible eye shine of the Great Potoo, alongside the eloquent Scissor-tailed Nightjar and the impressive Great Horned Owl.

An easy 200m walk from the lodge now leads to a hide designed specifically for viewing the beautiful Ocelot. Ocelot has always been here in good numbers and now with this hide it is highly likely that across our three nights at the lodge we shall enjoy wonderful views of this normally secretive species. In 2017 over 90% of our groups enjoyed superb views.

All in all, with the productive wildlife watching, the food, service, and air-conditioning, this lodge is a perfect complement to the time we had while at the Jaguar Flotel.

Day 11

Depart Cuiabá

Subject to flight times, we may have time for a short morning activity before we leave the lodge. We will then drive 3 hours to Cuiabá Airport to catch our flight back to São Paulo, and our onward flight to UK in the evening.

Domestic airline schedules, and the necessity to check-in for the international flights several hours before departure, may result in a protracted wait at Sao Paulo airport but much depends upon current timings, and we will seek to reserve the most convenient flights.

Day 12

London
We are scheduled to arrive back in London in the mid-afternoon (timing subject to later confirmation).

Focus and tour grading

Grade A/B. This is a conventional wildlife viewing tour but please note that some of the excursions may take place at night through uneven terrain and there will be river outings in small boats. This is an escorted natural history holiday. One of the main objectives will be to provide participants with observations of Jaguar in the wild, but it must be stated that mammals are often exceedingly hard to find and success cannot be guaranteed. With the aid of local expertise every effort will be made to locate Jaguar but even on the most favourable of days it is unlikely that the animals will be viewable for more than a fraction of the time spent in the field. At all times, including during the searches for Jaguar, due attention will be paid to the wider natural history of the country and as the most conspicuous and widespread members of the fauna, it is probable that a significant amount of time will be spent looking at birds. Avid birdwatchers (birders) should carefully note, however, that the principal focus of this holiday is the Jaguar and should be aware that whilst a good selection of birds is likely to be seen, this is not a designated ‘Birdwatching tour’ as may be found elsewhere in the Naturetrek programme. The itinerary will not include detours to search for specific bird species if this might be detrimental to the main aims of the holiday. Please do not hesitate to talk to the Operations Manager if you have any doubts about the suitability of this tour.

Weather

Generally hot (or very hot) and sunny with temperatures in the daily range 25-40°C, but much cooler conditions can prevail at times and sweaters, winter coats, raincoats, etc, could be required, particularly during river trips.

Food & accommodation

Accommodation in the Pantanal is in rustic but comfortable and well situated eco-lodges, typically offering twin-bedded rooms with private facilities, but single rooms may be available on request.
All food is included in the price of the tour, except after leaving the Southwild Lodge on your last day in Brazil, snacks or meals eaten at airports or in transit.

Flights from London

As standard we will be using scheduled service flights operating out of London Heathrow direct to Sao Paulo overnight with LATAM Airlines. LATAM provide an excellent service and a schedule that fits our itinerary.

If you would prefer, it is possible to fly with British Airways. Doing so will require staying a night near to Sao Paulo Airport on the final day and flying home a day later due to the flight timings. We can of course book this extra night for you. There may be a small surcharge for flying with British Airways and we can advise you if so and the cost.

On booking please let us know if you wish to fly with BA and also if you have a preference for particular seats.

It is worth mentioning here that should you want a more relaxed start to your holiday we can of course fly you out a day early and book a hotel at Sao Paulo airport for you. This will mean you will get a good night’s sleep before then flying on to Cuiaba and starting your holiday. Please let us know on booking if this is of interest.

Extensions

Should you wish to spend longer in Brazil, you may choose add an extension either to the beginning or end of your main group tour. There a various options as shown below.
