Introduction

Welcome to Naturetrek's Winter Bird Race – a fun, friendly and fast-paced event designed to celebrate the incredible birdlife of the UK during the colder months. Over 48 hours, in late January, you'll be part of a team aiming to see or hear as many bird species as possible across your chosen region.

This is not a competition in the traditional sense, but a shared challenge that combines camaraderie, exploration and a touch of strategy. You'll be guided by experienced tour leaders, who will plan efficient routes, navigate key habitats, and ensure everyone stays safe, warm, and energised throughout.

While the pace will be brisk to cover a wide range of habitats—from coastal marshes and ancient woodlands to reservoirs, farmland, mountains and heath—it's equally important that we all enjoy the experience. Birding should be inclusive and accessible, and leaders will always be mindful of the group's needs, offering rest breaks and adapting where necessary.

We encourage you to take in the beautiful landscapes as we go, be respectful of nature and one another and, above all, have fun. Whether your team records 90 species or 130, we hope you come away with memorable encounters, new birding friends, and a reinvigorated love for Britain's winter birds.

Good luck, happy birding – and let the race begin!

Itinerary

Please note that the itinerary below offers an outline of likely sites visited over the bird race. However, your leader will be reactive and will make judgements with the aim of seeing as many species as possible. This will always be done to maximise best use of the time and weather conditions available.

Day 1

Arrive Marazion

The bird race commences at 2pm and to facilitate this, we have organised a 12:00 check-in with your hotel. Please arrive in plenty of time to check in, have some lunch and be ready for the start of the Great British Bird Race

Days 1-3

Bird Race Across Cornwall

Your leader will devise a route visiting a variety of habitats in order to achieve the maximum number of species in the 48 available hours. This will be flexible during the race depending upon many factors. These could be due to rarities being sighted locally or failure to see a target species at a specific site.

Likely sites/habitats to be visited will include:

Headlands of West Cornwall:

The iconic Chough will be the prime target of the headlands of the far west. The avian symbol of Cornwall has made a remarkable comeback in the county where it was until recently extinct. We will also be looking for Peregrine, Raven and, hopefully, a wintering Black Redstart. Passing headlands, we hope to boost our total with seabirds which may include Fulmars, Gannets and Kittiwakes.

The Hayle Estuary:

One of south-west England's premier estuary sites will be thoroughly explored for the variety of wintering water birds and gulls that can be found here. Spoonbills are regular in winter as are scarce gulls with the possibility of an American vagrant a distinct possibility. Mediterranean Gull now winters in numbers and Glaucous and Iceland are possible. Recent vagrants have included Bonaparte's and Ring-billed Gull so anything is on the cards! Waders are also a feature of the site and will be a major component of the Cornish bird race total and these may also feature a rare vagrant.

Mounts Bay:

The large shallow bay between St Michael's Mount and Penzance is an excellent winter site for divers, grebes and sea-duck. All three divers are possible and in recent years vagrant Pacific Divers have been present on several occasions. Grebes, auks and scoters may also be offshore and the beach is a good spot for waders. A stop by the rocks in Penzance should yield Purple Sandpiper.

Walmsley:

The reedbeds and freshwater marshes here are a good spot for wintering Marsh Harriers and may hold a Great White or Cattle Egret. Cetti's Warblers will be in the tangles and wintering wildfowl on the marsh.

Other Habitats:

Every species will count, so farmland, moorland, deciduous woodland and urban areas will all be visited to ensure that no common bird is missed.

Day 3*Bird Race Results & Departure

The bird race will finish at 2pm, at which point, the leaders will present their totals to the event recorder. The group will return to the hotel and the results will be announced. Expected departure for home is 4pm.

Drop-offs to stations can be organised.

2026 Bird Race Highlights

Cornwall had an excellent bird race in 2026 with a total of 94 species recorded. Amongst them were some true transatlantic rarities with a Bonaparte's Gull on the promenade in Penzance and a Lesser Yellowlegs lurking in a creek in Truro. American wildfowl were also represented with a Lesser Scaup on Helston boating lake and a female Ring-necked Duck nearby. Other notable sightings included Purple Sandpipers, Black-throated Diver, Great Northern Diver, Great White Egret and Spoonbill. The Hayle held impressive numbers of waders, wildfowl and gulls while offshore, seabirds such as Fulmars, Kittiwakes and Gannets battled an impressive Atlantic swell. Cornwall claimed the best lunches of the bird race courtesy of the leaders unparalleled knowledge of the best pasty shops.

Grading & Focus

The absolute focus of this tour is to see as many birds as possible. The pace will be brisk and some sightings may only be brief. Time will be of the essence and as soon as target species have been encountered, expect to move on to the next site immediately.

The tour is graded B, due to the higher than normal intensity. However, walking will be kept to a practical minimum and consideration will be given to all participants in terms of pace. The event is designed to be fun and manageable and not to be strenuous. Expect to visit many sites with a lot of getting in and out of the minibus.

Food & Accommodation

Breakfast and dinner are included. Expect a 7am breakfast and an 8pm dinner in order to maximise daylight time in the field. Lunch is not included; expect this to be taken in the field. Your leader will stop at a convenient shop/café en route for you to purchase this.

Rooms are double and twin-bedded, all with private bathroom facilities. A limited number of single-person occupancy rooms are available and may be subject to a supplementary cost.

Clothing

The weather may be cold, wet, windy and even snowy so please be prepared. Bring several layers, including a thermal base layer and waterproof coat and trousers are required. Footwear should be sturdy, waterproof walking boots and a hat and gloves will be essential.

Comfortable, casual clothing and shoes are suggested for the evenings at the hotel.

Equipment

The following is our recommendation of general equipment that you should bring with you.

- Binoculars (essential)
- Telescope (strongly advised but optional)
- Thermos Flask
- Personal first aid kit
- Small waterproof rucksack/day pack
- Wash kit and medication
- Camera and accessories (optional)
