Introduction

This holiday is designed to maximise your chances of Tiger sightings by spending an extended period in one of India's best Tiger reserves – Kanha. We will also enjoy Kanha (National Park and) Tiger Reserve's excellent variety of birds and mammals, which provide excellent alternative wildlife viewing if Tigers prove hard to see. In order to make this holiday affordable to as many people as possible, its length has been restricted to suit those with limited holiday time, though this does mean that time spent outside Kanha Tiger Reserve will be limited. If you would like to extend your holiday and visit other national parks or cultural sites we can organise this for you.

On this holiday you must be prepared for a long journey one side which is from Kanha to Agra on an overnight train. Kanha is one of India's more remote reserves, and for this reason offers some of the subcontinent's finest mammal viewing. We have seen Tigers on 100% of tours to Kanha Reserve over the last six years and there is still a good chance of seeing this magnificent animal here, though of course this can never be guaranteed. Tigers were seen during the 1990s, but there was a dip in sightings during these years caused by poaching. However, numbers of Tigers have increased again thanks to a combination of more guards and good management practice by the Reserve's forest department.

If you enjoy birds, mammals and wild environments and look upon a Tiger sighting as a bonus earned from spending a lengthy time in such an environment, and are prepared to put up with the rigours of travelling in India at a hot time of the year (and for that reason the best for mammals), please do join us! The departures from November to January offer cooler weather, though there can be fewer Tigers during that season.

NB. From the time that Tigers start being seen on a more regular basis each year, we carefully monitor where they are most frequently sighted. If for any reason they are showing more regularly in reserves other than Kanha we will advise you and be pleased to offer an extension to the best location of the moment.

Day 1

Friday

In Flight

We depart from London on direct British Airways scheduled flight to Delhi at 6.55pm. We will be in flight overnight.

Day 2

Saturday

Delhi

We arrive in the morning at 8.50am and transfer to our hotel located close to the airport. Our stay in Delhi for this holiday is usually at the 5-star hotel, usually Roseate House or Pride Plaza Hotel New Delhi for a convenient access to the Delhi airport, (we cannot guarantee a particular hotel, but always endeavor to book one of a high standard not far from the airport). This hotel features an array of exceptional dining experiences, offering a selection of fine restaurants and elegant lounges. The Roseate New Delhi is renowned for its tranquil setting, contemporary luxury, and outstanding hospitality. Surrounded by beautifully landscaped gardens and water features, it provides a peaceful retreat before a long flight. If we do not stay at Roseate House or Pride Plaza New Delhi, a hotel offering an equivalent standard of accommodation, facilities, and service will be used.

The middle part of the day will be free, allowing you time to sample some of Delhi's avian and historical sights, or to just relax and recover after your flight.

In the afternoon there will be a birdwatching trip to Sultanpur National Park and Bird Sanctuary, 13 miles from our hotel. Sultanpur covers 1.5 sq km and was declared a bird sanctuary in 1971 and was upgraded to the status of national park in 1991 by the Haryana Government. This is an ideal birding spot; large numbers of migratory species arrive each year. The habitat is a mix of wetland, woodland and grassland. In the wetland area several trees have been planted on the mounds, which provide good nesting and perching opportunities for birds.

Day 3

Sunday

Fly to Jabalpur – Kanha Tiger Reserve

Today, we will fly to Jabalpur. On arrival, we will be transferred to Kanha. It is a 4-hour drive to Kanha. On arrival at Kanha, we will settle in for our 7-night stay and, the afternoon would be for you at leisure if you wish to our tour leader would be happy to show you the wonderful birdlife in and around the lodge.

On most of our Just Tigers! tours we base ourselves for our lengthy stay in Kanha at The Safari Lodge Kanha or Courtyard House Set amidst natural surroundings, the lodge offers comfortable cottage-style accommodation designed to blend with the wilderness environment. The property offers a peaceful atmosphere, landscaped gardens, wholesome cuisine, and attentive hospitality. Its proximity to the park makes it an excellent base for wildlife safaris and exploring the diverse flora and fauna of Kanha.

Day 4 – 9

Monday – Saturday

Kanha

Kanha Tiger Reserve encompasses 1,945 sq km and is one of the largest reserves in India. It occupies a beautiful location on a plateau in the Maikal range of hills and comprises a crescent of forested hills that embraces broad undulating grasslands dotted with clumps of bamboo and Sal forest. There are small pools and a perennial lake, which provide essential drinking holes for the animals. The Reserve was first established in 1955 for the protection of Swamp Deer, for which it is famous. Once these deer roamed India in herds of many thousands. Today there are more than 1500 left, though this represents a good recovery since 1970 when just 70 individuals remained. Since the launch of 'Project Tiger' in the early 1970s, Kanha has been one of the Project's key Tiger Reserves and, because its wide meadows are so suited to successful Tiger viewing, it is one of the best places in the world to search for them. Besides Tigers, we can also hope to observe plenty of Sambar, Spotted and Swamp Deer. We should also see Gaur, Wild Boar, Common Langur, Golden Jackal, and with luck Leopard and Dhole (Indian Wild Dog).

Around 120 species of birds are likely to be encountered around the Reserve during our stay, and these will be among the highlights of the tour. There is a good variety of birds of prey here, including Black-shouldered Kite, Crested Serpent Eagle, White-eyed Buzzard, Shikra, and a variety of vultures. Open country birds such as Painted Francolin, Indian Roller, Yellow- and Red-wattled Lapwings, and a variety of woodpeckers, pigeons, larks, pipits, and drongos are common. In the forests, the elusive Malabar Pied Hornbill, Black-headed Oriole, and a selection of flycatchers, babblers and warblers may be found. In particular, we shall keep a look out for the very rare Green Munia. Sloth Bear and two of India's lowland antelopes – Chousingha and the beautiful Blackbuck – also occur and can be seen with patience and good fortune.

Tigeress in a Lagoon in Kanha¹¹

During our stay at Kanha our aim will be to observe, enjoy and photograph the Reserve's many species of mammals and birds. Naturally, we will spend a great deal of time looking for Tigers, and with luck we may see and photograph this magnificent animal. Although Kanha is one of the very best reserves for Tiger sightings, and we will be going at one of the best times of year, we cannot guarantee them!

Our daily programme will include both morning and evening jeep drives inside the Tiger Reserve. These are, of course, all optional and there may be times when you'd prefer to relax back at the lodge and recharge your batteries, though the more game drives you do, the more you'll see! You are likely to see Tigers as well as most of the other wildlife you will encounter during the holiday on these game drives.

Tiger resting on the Rock

Each morning we will aim to leave our lodge at around 5.45am-6.00am, taking a picnic breakfast with us which we can eat at one of several designated stopping places, and we'll stay in the Tiger Reserve until midday, when it closes (during the hottest part of the day). We will return to the Reserve when it opens again at 3, depending on the season, and stay there until dusk, at around 6.30pm. In the middle of the day, after lunch, there will be time to rest or go on short birdwatching walks around the lodge.

At some stage we will also visit the Kanha Museum, located inside the park, which contains fascinating, well-conceived exhibits relating to the entire ecosystem and its fauna and flora. Outside Kanha Tiger Reserve we will be able to enjoy the area's birdlife on foot, walking being forbidden in all the Tiger Reserves of India, for obvious reasons!

Day 10

Sunday

Overnight Train to Agra

After a final game drives, we must reluctantly leave Kanha behind to retrace our steps by car to Jabalpur. From there, we will take the overnight sleeper train to Agra.

Day 11

Monday

Agra

We arrive in the fascinating Moghul city of Agra in the morning at 8am and transferred to our hotel. The check-in time at the hotel is 2pm but we will request for an early check-in and if the rooms are available, we will get them on our arrival at the hotel.

Later, we will visit Itmad-ud-Daulah (meaning 'baby Taj'), the mausoleum of Mirza Ghiyas Beg (the grandfather of Mumtaz Mahal, the lady of the Taj). This monument is as magnificent as the Taj Mahal itself and set in idyllic riverside gardens. Agra Fort, too, is a marvellous structure, with towering walls 2½km high.

Overnight at a comfortable hotel in Agra.

Day 12

Tuesday

Agra & Delhi

A visit to the Taj Mahal will be organised at sunrise. It is Agra's most famous monument. We will spend the whole morning enjoying the magnificent atmosphere of the Taj, its splendid gardens with their backdrop of the Yamuna River and the bird life within the grounds. We will check-out from the hotel before lunch.

We will travel by our late afternoon express train to Delhi, arriving in Delhi three hours later, we will check into our 5-star hotel Roseate House or Pride Plaza hotel for some rest and a good night's sleep!

Taj Mahal

Day 13

Wednesday

London

We transfer to Delhi airport to catch a British Airways mid-morning flight to London. We are due to arrive in London by afternoon.

NB. Please note that the itinerary offers our planned programme of excursions. However, adverse weather and other local considerations can necessitate some reordering of the programme during the course of the tour, though this will always be done to maximise best use of the time and weather conditions available.

Chambal & Bharatpur Extension

(The minimum number of people required to run this extension is five; however, we may decide to operate it with fewer people, at our discretion, with local guides.)

Day 12

Tuesday

Chambal

After spending today enjoying the historic monuments of Agra, we will travel by road for one hour to Chambal, where we will spend the night at the Mela Kothi Chambal Safari Lodge, a simple but comfortable eco-lodge (with private facilities) ideally situated for tomorrow's exploration of the region. The National Chambal Sanctuary, on the Chambal river, is a refuge for the rare and endangered Gharial and the Ganges River Dolphin. The area is best explored on boats, and we will be taking a spectacular wildlife viewing boat trip on the calm and gentle Chambal river.

The River Chambal is one of India's most beautiful and least polluted river systems. In 1979 a 400km stretch of the river was given 'protected area status' with the creation of the National Chambal Sanctuary, which spans 635 sq km and protects this pristine river ecosystem, complete with its varied flora, aquatic life and avifauna, among which is an interesting selection of rare and exotic species. These include the elusive and endangered Ganges River Dolphin, both Marsh Mugger and Gharial Crocodile, a variety of freshwater turtles, otters and a great many species of fish. The riverside habitats of the Chambal also offer excellent birdwatching opportunities, and the chance to see species such as River Tern, the increasingly uncommon Black-bellied Tern, Great Black-headed Gull and the bizarre Indian Skimmer, often to be found resting on sandbars in mid-river. Other attractions include the beautiful Small Pratincole, the Greater Thick-knee and many other waterbirds, including Little and Great Cormorants, Grey

Heron, Cattle Egret, Lesser Whistling Duck, Bar-headed Goose, Ruddy Shelduck, Comb Duck, Spot-billed Duck, Red-crested Pochard, Osprey, Black-winged Stilt, Little Ringed and Kentish Plovers, River and Red-wattled Lapwings, Common and Spotted Redshanks, Greenshank, Green, Wood and Common Sandpipers, and Little and Temminck's Stints. Other species present in the area include Black Kite, Steppe Eagle, Indian Peafowl, Rose-ringed (or Ring-necked) Parakeet, Indian Roller, White-throated and Pied Kingfishers, Sand Lark, Plain Martin, Barn and Wire-tailed Swallows, White, Masked and White-browed Wagtails, Large Grey and Jungle Babbler, Common and Bank Mynas, Black Drongo and House Crow.

Day 13 – 15

Wednesday – Friday

Bharatpur

After spending almost the whole day at Chambal, we will complete it with a 3-hour drive to Bharatpur. Here we will be based for three nights at The Birder's Inn, situated just outside the Sanctuary. This small privately owned lodge offers 24 spacious rooms that overlook a garden populated with fruit trees that attract various garden birds. You have all the necessary modern comforts like air-conditioning, swimming pool, hot and cold running water, a multi-cuisine restaurant & grill that serves a delectable variety of dishes.

Keoladeo Ghana National Park at Bharatpur (otherwise known as Bharatpur Bird Sanctuary) is arguably the finest bird reserve in the world, and certainly the best known. Formerly a shooting preserve of the Rajput maharajahs of Bharatpur, it covers just 29 sq km but contains a remarkable diversity of habitats. The wetlands – marshes and flooded ‘jheels’ – are contained within acacia-lined ‘bunds’, or embankments, and irrigated by a system of canals and sluices. Around them lie semi-arid grasslands and scrubland and some excellent broadleaved Kadam woodland. Over 350 species of birds have been recorded in the park and in just three days we are likely to see about 100 of them. Among these will be an unequalled array of wetland species, a great variety of vultures, eagles, hawks, falcons and owls, plus numerous small passerines. As well as birds, the park has an excellent variety of wild animals. Nilgai (or Blue Bull), Sambar and Spotted Deer, Wild Boar, Asiatic Jackal and two species of mongoose are all common, and this is one of the few places in India where the rare Striped Hyena may occasionally be seen. The Indian Rock Python is another highlight that is usually seen. We have two days to enjoy this exceptional feast of wildlife, and the superb photographic opportunities that it presents.

Gharials on the Chambal

Day 16

Saturday

Delhi

After a final half-day's birding at Bharatpur, it will be driving to Delhi. Here we will transfer to a 5-star hotel, Roseate House or Pride Plaza Hotel for some rest and a good night's sleep!

Roseate House

Day 17

Sunday

London

We transfer to Delhi airport to catch a British Airways mid-morning flight to London. We are due to arrive in London by afternoon.

Bharatpur & Ranthambore Extension

(The minimum number of people required to run this extension is five; however, we may decide to operate it with fewer people, at our discretion, with local guides.)

Day 12

Tuesday

Bharatpur

After our day enjoying the historic monuments of Agra, we will drive this evening to Bharatpur and spend the night at The Birder's Inn, situated just outside the Sanctuary. This small privately owned lodge offers 24 spacious rooms that overlook a garden populated with fruit trees that attract various garden birds. You have all the necessary modern comforts like air-conditioning, swimming pool, hot and cold running water, a multi-cuisine restaurant & grill that serves a delectable variety of dishes.

Day 13

Wednesday

Bharatpur to Ranthambore

Keoladeo Ghana National Park at Bharatpur (otherwise known as Bharatpur Bird Sanctuary) is arguably the finest bird reserve in the world, and certainly the best known. Around them lie semi-arid grasslands and scrubland and some excellent broadleaved Kadam woodland. Over 350 species of birds have been recorded in the park and in just a morning we could easily see nearly 100 of them. Among these will be an unequalled array of wetland species, a great variety of vultures, eagles, hawks, falcons and owls, plus numerous small landbirds. As well as birds, the park has an excellent variety of other wild animals. Nilgai (or Blue Bull), Sambar and Spotted Deer, Wild Boar, Asiatic Jackal and two species of mongoose are all common, and this is one of the few places in India where the rare Fishing Cat may occasionally be seen. The Indian Rock Python is another highlight that is usually seen.

On this extension we can offer just one early morning excursion into the sanctuary to enjoy this exceptional feast of wildlife, but those of you who make the worthwhile effort to rise early and enjoy one of the best birdwatching times of the day will not be disappointed!

We will leave Bharatpur mid-morning and drive to Ranthambore. There we will be based for our 3-night stay at Tiger Den, a modern 'jungle lodge' consisting of 38 deluxe cottages (each room with private facilities), with a swimming pool for use on hot afternoons! This afternoon we will be at leisure. This will give us some opportunity to rest during our hectic schedule.

Days 14 – 15

Thursday – Friday

Ranthambore (National Park &) Tiger Reserve

Ranthambore is widely considered to be one of India's most beautiful Tiger reserves. Encircled by a series of high escarpments, the forests, lakes and dry scrub that make up the park are dotted with old forts and temples, creating a wonderful atmosphere for both bird and mammal viewing among a landscape oozing with ancient Rajput history and Rajasthani culture. Ranthambore is perhaps most famous for being one of the original 'Project Tiger' reserves and it provides one of the best opportunities anywhere in India of seeing a Tiger.

Each morning we will take a safari into the park between 6:30am and 10am (Oct, Feb and Mar) or 7.00am to 10.30am (Nov-Jan) or 6.00am to 9.30am (Apr-Jun), leaving after tea and biscuits, in order to gain our place in the entrance queue. We will return to the Reserve when it opens again at 2:00pm, 2.30 pm or 3:00pm, depending on the season, and stay there until dusk, at around 6pm. These timings can change anytime without prior notice. In the middle of the day, after lunch, there will be time to rest or go on short birdwatching walks around the lodge.

Whether or not you see a Tiger on this holiday, you cannot fail to be impressed by the sheer variety and number of other mammals and birds that make the Reserve their home. Common Langurs are abundant, as are both Spotted (Chital) and Sambar Deer; the latter often feeding so far out into the lakes that only their heads show above the water. Nilgai, the largest of India's antelopes, are also fairly common. For the very fortunate there is also a chance of an encounter with a Sloth Bear, a Leopard or perhaps a Chinkara Antelope (Indian Gazelle). Marsh Mugger Crocodiles are common in the lakes and monitor lizards are frequently seen around their shores. In addition to the mammals and reptiles, we will also see a wonderful diversity of birds. Flocks of Peafowl are on almost constant show while, on the lakes, Cotton Pygmy Geese and both Bronze-winged and Pheasant-tailed Jacanas are common. The surrounding woodland and grasslands hold such species as Black-rumped Flameback Woodpecker, Tickell's Blue Flycatcher, Rufous-tailed Finch Lark (an Indian endemic), Painted Spurfowl, Jungle Bush Quail, Small Minivet and Stork-billed Kingfisher. In addition there is also the opportunity to find up to five species of owl, including Brown Fish Owl, Dusky Eagle Owl and Collared Scops Owl. On our morning and evening game drives we will be accompanied by local guides, whose expert knowledge of the park can be invaluable when tracking down some of the more elusive species.

An optional visit to the spectacular ruins of Ranthambore Fort, whose massive battlements dominate the Reserve, are well worth a visit and afford a wonderful vantage point over the rolling hills which comprise Ranthambore Tiger Reserve, as well as the adjacent semi-desert areas where such dry-country birds as Indian Courser, Yellow-wattled Lapwing and sandgrouse species may be found.

Day 16

Saturday

Delhi

After a final early morning game drive, we must leave Ranthambore and drive to Delhi. Here we will transfer to a 5-star hotel, RoseateHouse or Pride Plaza Hotel for some rest and a good night's sleep!

Day 17

Sunday

London

We transfer to Delhi airport to catch a British Airways mid-morning flight to London. We are due to arrive in London by afternoon.

Grading

This is a mammal and birdwatching tour, and accordingly the walking is graded A (easy). Unlike any other wildlife tour, it focuses on a lengthy study of one Tiger Reserve (the best for Tigers!), and avoids the tiring travelling that is a necessary component of some more typical wildlife tours in India which journey to one park after another.

Weather

In January, travel through central and northern India covering Kanha National Park, Agra, Delhi, Bharatpur, and the Chambal region offers crisp, clear weather with stark contrasts between chilly mornings and pleasantly mild afternoons. At Kanha, early morning safaris in open jeeps can be extremely cold, often dipping below 5°C, with the added wind chill making warm, windproof layers essential. Dense forest mist adds atmosphere and excellent visibility later in the morning enhances wildlife sightings. In Agra and Delhi, expect cold, sometimes foggy mornings around 6–10°C, especially near the Yamuna River, gradually giving way to sunny afternoons reaching up to 22°C. The monuments look beautiful in the soft winter light, but the early fog may briefly obscure views. Wetland areas like Bharatpur and the Chambal are similarly brisk in the morning, particularly during boat rides or birding walks, but warm quickly after sunrise. Throughout the region, the days are dry and comfortable, making January one of the best times for both wildlife viewing and cultural exploration—so long as you're well-prepared for the sharp temperature shifts.

Early Booking on Tiger Tours is essential!

The new regulations, including a drastic reduction in the number of jeeps and visitors permitted to enter such popular reserves as Bandhavgarh, Kanha and Pench each day, meant that those booking late could often not be accommodated. The simple fact is that the number of beds available at the lodges servicing each of these parks now far exceeds the tiny number of visitors permitted to enter each day. We cannot therefore emphasise strongly enough that early booking is essential. You really do need to book now if you are to secure a place on a tour that visits one of these Tiger Reserves next season.

Nick Acheson reflects on a tour that's so much more than Just Tigers.

Not Just Tigers

Kanha National Park in Central India has long been a Naturetrek favourite. It's the home of our perennially successful Just Tigers! tour and it features prominently in two more superb tours: Tiger Direct! and Tiger Marathon. Little wonder as it's a serenely beautiful place: cool forests of sal trees echo with the sci-fi whistles of Black-hooded Orioles and the resonant purrs of Brown-headed Barbets while golden grassland nearby is full of the comings and goings of stately Barasingha.

Above all, though, it's for the Tigers that we come here. This is among the very best places on earth for watching these peerless animals and recently the Tiger-watching here has been so good as to be almost embarrassing. It's all to do with a magnificent male Tiger known as Munna. He made his Naturetrek debut in November 2008 when, still a handsome teen, he delighted our second ever Tiger Direct! group with point-blank photo opportunities in the hills at Umarpani. It was clear even then, as he strode nonchalantly past a line of jeeps, that he was destined to become an A-list Tiger. Replete now with females and three cubs which are quite as bold as their father, Munna has become one of India's most charismatic Tigers.

What luck for me therefore to have led Naturetrek's final Just Tigers! tour of spring 2011 when Munna and his family, plus countless other enchanting creatures, were much in evidence. The tone for the tour was set on our first afternoon in the park. Golden Jackals tiptoed along the roadside before we reached the park gate, Chital bucks nodded their magnificent antlers all along the road, every tree seemed decked with languid Common Langurs, and muscle-heavy Gaur with glossy coats strode magnificently from stands of bamboo. All of these delights fell almost by the wayside when we reached the beautiful grassland known as Kanha Meadows; for here a group of jeeps was already watching one of Munna's handsome cubs in short grass. My first instinct on seeing a Tiger, especially the first Tiger of a tour, is to look away from the cat and along the line of jeeps to make sure that all my clients are present. Mission accomplished. All of my jeeps had arrived, everyone was looking in awe at the fantastic feline, all faces were beaming and not a few of my clients were shedding their first Tiger tears. The cub wandered into a stand of long grass along a stream, but the Tiger who emerged from the clump was not him but his mother. This radio-collared female is among the most richly orange Tigers in Kanha and, while not courting us quite so brazenly as her cubs or their father, she has regularly been admired by Naturetrek groups.

These are but a few of the memories – and a few of the Tigers – from a hugely successful tour. I could wax lyrical too about the Shikras displaying over Munna's head, the broken-eared Asian Wild Dog who made several appearances, or the Asian Paradise Flycatchers quivering their silver-ribbon tails in the bamboo while the Kisli male Tiger lounged in his bath during the sweltering heat of the day. In fact I could witter on for hours about this glorious park and its inhabitants.

But I won't so you'll just have to come with us and see. Why not join us on one of our unrivalled Tiger-watching tours to Kanha and pay court to Munna yourselves?
