Day 1

Tuesday 10th September

The flight arrived at Cape Town International Airport from London Heathrow on time. After baggage and customs formalities we were on the road by 09:00, but first had to deviate via Balmoral Lodge. Janet had overnighted there after being in Botswana and we needed to collect her to join this tour. We then drove over the scenic Ou Kaapse Weg (Old Cape Road) Pass to the village of Noordhoek on the Cape Peninsula and headed for De Noordhoek Hotel to offload luggage and freshen up after the long flight.

An early lunch was decided on after a bit of relaxation before our scheduled visit to two good birding and wildlife localities, Seekoeivlei and Rondevlei. These are both excellent natural wetland reserves. While enjoying our lunch an African Fish-Eagle flew overhead calling as if to welcome everyone. We got off to a good start when the first mammal of the trip was a pair of Cape Gysbok, a small seldom seen antelope that is endemic to the Western Cape. Numbers of pink Greater Flamingo made a good impression and so did Black-necked Grebes which are rather special. Another scarce vagrant to the Cape was a Goliath Heron at Rondevlei. This is the largest heron in the world and was a first for our guide, Bert.

We then drove along the coastal Boye's Drive to scan the Atlantic for Southern Right Whales which visit this coast each year to breed. We had a stunning view of one of these enormous mammals breaching. After all this excitement none of us were tired anymore, and as we still had a bit of time on our hands we took a stroll along the Jonker's Hoek hiking trail which traverses some beautiful Fynbos vegetation, unique to the Cape. Here we had good sightings of endemic Cape Sugarbirds and Orange-breasted Sunbirds, both Protea specialists. Two other delightful sunbirds seen by all were the colourful Malachite Sunbird and the smaller Southern Double-collared Sunbird.

Dinner on this first evening was at the Toad Restaurant, named after the endangered Western Leopard Toad which is endemic to this area, and is also the largest toad. Our bird and mammal lists were updated which is the normal pattern at this time each day. Our bird list of 64 species on this first day was good, especially as we did not have a full day due to travelling.

Day 2

Wednesday 11th September

We had a long drive today to Westcoast National Park so made an early start at 06:30. So as not to waste time we had a picnic breakfast in the park at the Abraham's Kraal bird hide, interrupted by sightings of Cape Shoveler, Greater Flamingo, Black-shouldered Kite and many different bird species. Our first mammal sightings took place before reaching our picnic spot and these included Common Duiker, our National Mammal, Springbok, Burchell's Zebra and Bontebok, an antelope endemic to a small area of the Western Cape.

After breakfast we moved on to the Posberg section of the National Park which is a wonderful area for wildflowers at this time of year. A herd of seven Kudu was a nice find by the observant Paul and we had plenty of stops to enjoy the scenery and take photographs. The flowers were spectacular and there was colour stretching to the horizon in every direction. Scattered amongst the flowers were mammals such as the mighty Eland, endemic Cape Mountain Zebra, Springbok and Bontebok. We had deviated from the itinerary today for this drive as we had clear blue sky which is not often the case at this time of year. Everyone enjoyed the day in spite of the lengthy drive and we also saw our National Bird, Blue Crane. Only the second day of the tour and we have had South Africa's National bird, mammal and flower - the latter being the Protea.

Thursday 12th September

After a hearty breakfast we set off for Table Mountain and a walk to McCleers Beacon. A very cold wind was blowing but whenever we could take shelter it was most pleasant with fantastic visibility. Looking towards Franschoek and Paarl we could see snow-topped mountains, and we knew why the wind was icy. Orange-breasted Sunbirds were very active and gave superb photographic opportunities.

The famed Kirstenbosch Botanical Gardens were also visited and the flowers were magnificent. King Proteas as well, plus a variety of flowering Leucospermum and Erica kept the photographers busy. The resident pair of Spotted Eagle-Owls showed well, with the female on her nest and the male in attendance nearby. A good day was had by all.

Day 4

Friday 13th September

We made an early departure at 06:15 to visit Boulders Beach where there is a breeding colony of African Penguins. The setting was wonderful with the rising sun in a red glow, and this made our early start worthwhile. The penguins were gathering in small groups, going about their morning routine like little people, and getting ready for a day at sea fishing. New mammals for our list at this site were Cape Fur Seals and six Humpback Whales.

We returned to our hotel for a welcome breakfast and set off again just after 10:00 to visit the life-size statue of "Just Nuisance" who was a famous Great Dane dog who took it on himself to look after young sailors at the Simon's Town naval base during the second World War. He was made an able seaman and was wonderful company to many lonely young men away from home at the time, but he did not like officers. A delightful illustrated book has been written about him.

We then drove along the spectacular coastline to the Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve at the southern tip of Africa and spent some time with a troop of Chacma Baboons, much to Stephen's delight. Within the reserve en route to the Olifantsbos viewpoint we came across a Bontebok that had only just given birth. We stayed a while, watching the mother carefully licking her new born and helping it stay upright on very wobbly legs. This became the event of the day, voted by all. At Olifantsbos the strong wind resulted in flocks of Swift Terns, Sandwich Terns and Common Terns, and at Cape Point we watched a flock of 34 White Storks flying high and struggling with the strong wind.

Day 5

Saturday 14th September

During the night there was a big rain storm and gale force wind but by morning the rain had stopped and the wind had calmed down. A pelagic trip was scheduled for today but it did not take place as the sea was pretty rough. We thus decided to visit the Helderberg Nature Reserve. There was heavy cloud over the mountain but it was dry (though wet underfoot) and not too windy or cold. On the first pond there was a pair of African Black Duck, normally a river duck and not often seen. African Goshawk was nearby and Fiscal Flycatchers were in attendance and on the slopes of the mountain we had good views of Cape Grassbird and Cape Sugarbirds. The botany was also good and much was in flower.

As we were in the winelands we decided to do some wine tasting at Delheim Wine Estate and we had lunch there as well. We saw Fork-tailed Drongo, Jackal Buzzard and delightful little Sweet Waxbills near the restaurant. Our return drive took us through Franschoek and across the Berg River, where a Giant Kingfisher was spotted by Stephen. This became bird of the day, shared by Sweet Waxbills.

Day 6

Sunday 15th September

We packed and left De Noordhoek Hotel today after a very pleasant five night stay where we were made most welcome. The wind was very strong as we departed, after a brief search for Western Leopard Toads without success. We made up for this later at Harold Porter Botanical Gardens by seeing another scarce amphibian, Clicking Stream Frog. By the time we reached Fishhoek the rain was pelting down and we thought our chances of seeing anything were slim. However, when we reached Clarence Drive the rain had stopped and at Kogel Bay we spotted Bottlenose Dolphins playing in the surf. We also saw Southern Right Whales and Cape Fur Seals and a bit further on our drive we got Common Dolphins as well.

In the Harold Porter Botanical Gardens we had a short stroll and lunch and then visited Stony Point at Betty's Bay where there is a colony of breeding African Penguins. It is a much smaller colony than the one at Boulder's Beach visited a few days ago. Of interest here was a large breeding colony of Cape Cormorants and there were some Bank Cormorants as well, which is a scarce bird. Then in a field at the Bot River Bridge we came across seven Denham's Bustards, including one male giving a fantastic display trying to attract the females. What a show off! To add to this excellent sighting five Blue Cranes flew over and landed nearby. A good day after all, which ended with a great meal at the Burgundy Restaurant.

Monday 16th September

We had planned a sea trip for Great White Sharks today which was sadly cancelled due to the sea still being too rough from stormy weather. Swells of over 4 metre and wind up to 50kph were expected. An early morning walk along the cliff top of Walker Bay gave us an excellent close up sighting of four Southern Right Whales and in the late afternoon we had even a better show with flipper splashing and smashing of tail flukes down on the surface, plus breaching above the surface and falling back while bellowing loudly.

We then took a drive out of town and must have seen at least 150 Blue Cranes in different flocks. We counted 74 in one flock alone. Incredible!! Denham's Bustards also showed well and our bird count today was 73 species.

One special bird was a Rufous-chested Sparrowhawk that showed well. All this was some compensation for sadly missing out on the shark cruise. We enjoyed lunch at Dassiefontein and dinner was at the Fisherman's Cottage.

Day 8

Tuesday 17th September

We started with a pre-breakfast walk along the cliff top at Walker Bay and packed our bags after our final breakfast together as we were heading back to Cape Town International Airport for an evening departure flight back to London Heathrow. There was time for a leisurely drive with stops on the way and the first of these was in Fernkloof Nature Reserve where we had a walk amongst heaps of flowers in full bloom. Of interest to everyone were the little carnivorous Sundews in flower. One stunning plant was Painted Lady, a species of Iris. Other beautiful plants were Leucospermums, Moraea, Ericas and Grassbell. We explored the small forest in the reserve and saw Cape Batis and Blue-mantled Crested-Flycatcher.

Another stop was at Rooiels where we searched for Cape Rockjumper without success. Probably the wind kept them hidden. Travelling along the coast we saw Bottlenose Dolphins and at one stop Stephen spotted a Verreaux' Eagle high on a cliff. As we watched it took off and for some time it was 'hanging in the wind' above the cliff for a stunning view - an excellent sighting and a really good bird to end the trip with. Finally to the airport with fond but sad farewells... In spite of inclement weather at times and changes in plan forced upon us, it was a good trip, enjoyed by all, with plenty to see and enjoy
